

Supreme Court of the United States
Washington, D. C.

CHAMBERS OF
ROBERT H. JACKSON

February 4, 1949.

Mr. Allen W. Dulles,
48 Wall Street,
New York 5, New York.

My dear Mr. Dulles:

I am trying to be of help to Gisevius, for I agree with you that his work would be a most useful one. I think it is likely that you will be able to be of help to him.

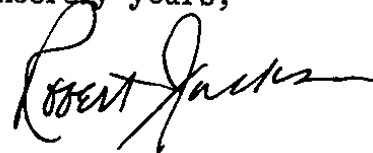

A young lady formerly on my staff at Nurnberg is employed in the Pentagon in connection with war crimes matters and we put Mr. Gisevius in touch with her. She apparently did a very good job in locating the material that he needs and in getting him a hearing with the Public Information Division.

The difficulty is that much of this material is still classified and there is some reluctance to let a German go into the classified documents. I think this is rather understandable and it may need some recommendation of Gisevius to overcome it. Up to date I have not learned of any real difficulty, but if there is, I shall advise him to get a letter from you, and I shall be glad to give him one.

I hope our paths will cross soon.

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "Robert Jackson", written in a cursive style.